

Dr. Sharl Azar biography

Dr. Sharl Azar is the medical director of the Comprehensive Sickle Cell Disease Treatment Center and the Robert K. Kraft Chair of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion at the Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School. He received his medical degree from Oregon Health & Science University where he also completed his residency in internal medicine and his fellowship in hematology and medical oncology while also serving as Chief Fellow. He went on to complete an advanced fellowship in hemostasis and thrombosis at the University of California, San Diego. Dr. Azar is passionate about the care of patients with Sickle Cell Disease, Thalassemia, and other hemoglobin disorders. His work focuses on improving systems of care and political advocacy for patients living with sickle cell disease to build a true medical home while combatting inequities in health care.

@TheSickleDoc on Twitter, Bluesky, and Instagram.